TRAVELING RAILROAD SCHOOL.

Its Purpose Is to Teach Engineers to Properly Use the Air Brake.

A traveling schoolhouse is one of the curiosities of modern railroading. It is a queer little house, and it cost $10,000 to build. It is filled with levers, air chambers, cylinders, whistles, gauges, valves, cords and pipes, and at one end is an upright steam boiler and air pump, used in compressing the air with which the apparatus is operated.

No children attend this school. Many of the pupils are grizzled, grimy veterans, who have been railroading for years. Others are younger men, and there is a sprinkling of boys from 10 years old up. They are taught by a regular professor, a graduate of a mechanical college. His pupils have no books. They listen while he talks and watch while he demonstrates the workings of the air brake. His classes are usually held from nine till eleven o'clock in the morning and from seven till nine o'clock at night, so that he can have for pupils the railroad men who have recently come in off their runs.

The air brake is the one subject taught. From 15 to 25 pupils will crowd into the small space on the side of the middle of the room not occupied by apparatus. The professor is usually in his shirt sleeves and bareheaded, for the atmosphere in the room is always from 90 to 110 degrees, made so by the steam boiler. The professor has only one book, and while he is delivering his lectures and talking about the possibilities as well as the troubles of the air brake he keeps this book in the hip pocket of his trousers. After his lecture is over he takes it out, and it is then found to be only a small blank book.

In this he writes the names of the members of the class before him. He will then question the pupils, and jots down opposite each name the percentage of correct answers given. Any who fall below a certain mark have to come back to school for another lesson. Sometimes it takes three or four lessons to teach a man the principles of the air brake; sometimes a man will thoroughly understand the intricacies of the system at one lesson.

The apparatus represents a locomotive and a train of 17 cars. Each car is represented by an air cylinder. The professor shows how easy it is by the proper manipulation of the engineer's lever to put all the brakes on at once and to release them all at once. He then shows how unskilled engineers can and often do release one or two brakes at a time, thus affecting the efficiency of the service. He illustrates the emergency application, in which the entire 17 cars have their brakes set in one second by the watch.

"This was what was done by the drunken legislator," he said, "at the famous Tarrytown disaster. Unfortunately the legislator was on the forward section of the train, and when he pulled the emergency rope it stopped the train, and before the brakes could be released the train following it crashed into the rear coach."

The professor does not charge his pupils tuition. He is paid by the road to teach the employees the use and abuse of the air brake. The instruction car, as this traveling schoolhouse is called, belongs to the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and has been in Lexington for the past week, and its schoolmaster, Prof. Huntley, has instructed here full 100 of the road's employees. He travels over the road the year round, stopping at the ends of divisions for a week or more, as becomes necessary.—N. Y. Sun.

Nuts as Food.

In the recent examination of nuts it has been found that the common beech nut is as valuable as many cereals for food. Like cereals, it possesses considerable starch as well as oil. In case of necessity a good meal could be furnished from these nuts, which now furnish such excellent food for hungry squirrels and other small animals and to some forest birds. The walnut, butternut, and even the hazelnut and chestnut, though rich in oil, are proportionately poor in starch, and therefore not so valuable for food.—N. Y. Tribune.

Deeds of Valor in War Kept in Remembrance

The military revival of Japan, which began with the conquest of China, showed itself in the various ways the great industries of the country celebrated the heroic incidents and victories of the war, says Atlantic. The toy-makers sent out legions of mechanical toys representing the flight of Chinese soldiers, the storming of Port Arthur and the fight of the Japanese flagship with the enemy's ironclads.

Artists commemorated the nation's triumphs in porcelain, metal work and lacquer ware. Designers portrayed them on the dresses of men, women and children. Tobacco pouches, sleeve buttons, hairpins, combs and even chopsticks were covered with representations that expressed the war spirit.

Bundles of toothpicks in tiny cases were offered for sale, each toothpick having engraved upon it, in microscopic text, a different poem about the war.

Gallant deeds were dramatized. The fatal courage of a Japanese soldier who scaled a rampart and opened a fortress gate to his comrades; the heroism of 14 troopers who held their own against 300 infantry; the successful charge of unarmed coolies upon a Chinese battalion were reproduced before thousands of spectators. Mr. Hearn mentions one incident whose realistic portrayal must have thrilled the audience—the death of the bugler, Shirakami Genjiro.

At the battle of Song-Hwan this Japanese bugler was ordered to sound the charge. He had sounded it once when a bullet passed through his lungs, throwing him down. His comrades tried to take the bugle away, seeing his wound was fatal. He wrested it from them, lifted it again to his lips, sounded the charge once more with all his strength and fell back dead.

The chair made vacant by death is always a sad reminder. It is especially sad when it is mother's chair. All over this broad land there are vacant chairs that would still be occupied by healthy, happy, radiant mothers if women would but realize the importance of keeping well in a womanly way. Women cannot too soon understand that it is little less than a crime to neglect the health of the organs to which are entrusted the perpetuation of a healthy, robust race of human beings. By neglect of these organs a woman ruins her own health, destroys the happiness of her home, and fails in the performance of the most sublime duty that she owes to the world.

The best medicine for women who are weak where Nature demands the most strength is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly upon the organs that make motherhood possible. It cures all weakness and disease that exists there and stops all distressing, debilitating drains. It prepares a woman for motherhood and insures a healthy baby. It makes the coming of baby easy and almost painless. Druggists who offer something "just as good" are either ignorant or dishonest and in either case are not to be trusted.

"I had been a great sufferer for years with female weakness," writes Mrs. John Downie, of No. 24 Lexington Avenue, Eddystone, Delaware Co., Pa. "I could not walk three squares without terrible suffering. I also had a pain in my left side for seven years—until I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My pain has left me altogether. Have had no symptoms of it at all for two years. Can walk two or three miles at a time and it does not hurt me. I cannot recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines highly enough. My daughter also has used your medicines with great benefit. She was operated upon for appendicitis and had fainting spells from it. She took the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Favorite Prescription. I have used it for my own use and for my daughter's. I have not had any fainting spells for one year. When she commenced to take it she weighed 55 pounds now she weighs 120 pounds."

Constipation! It is the fountain-head of many diseases. It causes impure blood and all manner of disorders are the result. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Promptly. Surely. Permanently. They never gripe. Druggists sell them.

SQUARE TALK FROM VAN WYCK.

Judge Van Wyck, the Mayor elect of Greater New York, was an enthusiastic supporter of William J. Bryant in 1896. In an interview since his election he said:

"The election is over, the polls are closed, the ballots counted, the Democracy has been victorious, and I am, I learn, by popular choice, the Mayor to be of Greater New York."

"At the outset I want to call the general eye to the Democratic platform and to my letter of acceptance. By those I stand; those principles therein set forth, I will do my utmost to foster. The promises to the last letter I will keep."

"As we begin the first year of Greater New York there is much to do. Liberty must be restored to the citizens, the protection of his rights must be resumed; the pillage of public money must cease; extravagance must be discontinued, waste must stop, schools must be built, the streets must be reclaimed from chaos, taxes brought to a proper level. Private interest has too long governed this city; it must give way to public good."

"The efforts of trusts, of monopolies, of combinations, whether corporate or private, to control trade, choke competition and cheat the citizens by false high prices has been withstood and beaten down."

"Every child must have the right to go to school. Nor shall the school system cease of enlargement until every possible pupil can find fullest accommodations."

That is square talk from an elected official. As it is not meant to influence votes it is but reasonable to assume that the new Mayor intends to administer the laws vigorously and impartially. What he says of city government applies with equal force to State and National government. There should be no special privileges accorded to favorites. Every citizen should be protected in his rights, whether he be a striking coal miner, fighting for enough wages for his labor to keep himself and family from starvation, or a Rockefeller or Vanderbilt, with an income of millions a year. The pillage of the public under the guise of "fostering industries" should cease and the Government conducted for the benefit of the public, not in the interest of private corporations. Trusts should not be permitted to shape legislation in their own interests. Bonds should not be issued to replenish the gold reserve, simply to oblige the gold syndicate while there is considerable over $200,000,000 in legal tender money in the Treasury. Tariff schedules should not be arranged, under the specious plea of encouraging an infant industry, to give sugar and other trusts opportunity to increase their dividends several millions a year, and law makers, who are on the inside, and of a speculative turn, a chance to make a few thousand in stocks, which they knew would advance by reason of favorable legislation.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

In Hamilton county, Ohio, in which is situated the city of Cincinnati, the largest city in the State, the Silver Democrats and Silver Republicans united their forces and the result is a clean sweep. Not a goldbug was elected in the city and Mr. Hanna will not get a vote from any of the representatives in the Legislature. In Nebraska the Silver Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists combined and elected every candidate on the Union ticket. In Kentucky the Gold Democrats ran a ticket in the interest of their Republican gold friends, but they did not succeed, and Louisville, which has been Republican for years and gave McKinley over 12,000 majority, repudiated the gold gang and gave the silver ticket a majority of several thousand.

The lesson of Tuesday's elections shows that there are only two parties—the gold men and the silver men. The silver men should not permit any dissensions on minor issues to divide them or distract their attention from the main question. The principles which they advocate are founded on truth and justice and will prevail. States, which less than three years ago would not listen to bimetalists, are now for free coinage. The people are studying the question, and many of them who really believed in the 50-cent dollar cry of the gold men a year ago now realize the absurdity of that assertion and favor the free coinage of silver into legal tender dollars which everybody knows are good for one hundred cents.

The Treasury Department has sustained the decision of Collector Jackson of San Francisco that Chinese may enter this country at will on the sole condition that they bear certificates in any language declaring them to be within the privileged class and providing that those certificates are vied by the United States representative in the port whence they departed.

The election returns from the East are still comparatively unsatisfactory. Maryland has gone Republican. Ohio is in doubt as yet, but indications point to a Hanna victory. In New York it is believed that the Democrats will organize the Legislature.

PALESTINE AND THE JEWS.

Why the Modern Hebrew Is Rarely a Farmer.

Palestine is at present, as Matthew Arnold has said, a land "of sun, and arid stone, and crumbling wall, and sultry sand," but there is no reason to doubt that culture and irrigation would restore its fertility, and that it might once again overflow with milk and honey if only the means were secured whereby the work of reclamation could be begun on a large scale, says the London Spectator. The German colonies there have done well, and there are few parts of the land that would not yield wealth.

It has been objected that the modern Jew is rarely a farmer; that he prefers to work with his brains, to turn money over, to engage in speculative occupations, rather than to work with his hands. The fact is true in the main, but it is capable of explanation through historic causes. It is almost certain that we owe agriculture to the Semites and it is certain that the Jews were in ancient times an agricultural people. Their exclusion from so many arts in western Europe, their confinement for centuries to a few callings and to narrow areas, will sufficiently account for their present speculative and somewhat mercenary instincts.

It would be distinct gain to them, morally and socially, could a goodly proportion of their race be induced to resume, under happy conditions, those healthy and primary arts of life in which they engaged before the overflow of their ancient commonwealth. One more land reclaimed from Turkish poverty and desolation would be a gain for the Jews and for the entire world. It is certain that the Turk will do nothing with Palestine; it seems equally certain that European rivalries will prevent any one European country from colonizing it; why may not the true solution be found in Jewish colonization? The idea is attractive and it seems feasible.

MEDICAL REFORM IN CHINA.

Signs of a Great Change in the Present Methods of Treatment.

China has long been the stronghold of barbarous and complicated civilization. As an empire she has cultivated customs permeated by the most ridiculous superstitions known to mankind, says the London Medical Press. The frailty of scientific foundation, in fact, that lies at the root of their supremely clever ignorance is especially conspicuous in the art of medicine. Chinese practitioners, it is well known, dose their patients with wasps' nests, elephants' skin and every kind of filth and abomination. But signs are not wanting that a huge wave of reform is about to sweep over the medical world of China. In other words, the Chinese are beginning to recognize the superiority of western medicine. The process of adoption is likely, however, to be slow, although the government has officially signified, from time to time, its approval of the medical practice of the foreign devils. In China social reforms spread from the throne downward, so that there appears some remote prospect of the general introduction of scientific medicine among the population of that huge empire. If the emperor be really in earnest, the best plan would be to send over a large number of young Chinamen to the medical schools of Europe.

PITY THE POOR SEALS.

All the Female Puppies Are to Be Branded by Electricity.

One of the suggestions announced for the protection of the seals in northern waters, which appears to be entirely practicable, is that proposed by President Jordan, of the Leland Stanford, Jr., university, of California, who advocates that the government brand all female seals found in our waters, thus destroying the skin for commercial purposes, and, consequently, offering no inducement to the sealer to kill such branded animals.

President Jordan has just returned from the Pribiloff islands with the news that the revenue cutter Rush has inaugurated the scheme. The branding is effected by means of an electrical device, which is both convenient and effective. Dr. Jordan says, in regard to this branding process, that it is perfectly feasible to brand seals, and that the brand will remain permanently, as it does on a horse or cow. One man can brand female seal pups at the rate of 1,000 a day.

The brand will grow with the outer growth of the animal. The outer, or water hair, will hide it to some extent, but the part of the skin on which it appears is permanently spoiled for the furrier's purpose, as, in the course of preparation for market, all the longer or water hair is removed. The adult seals can also be branded without injury, but they are not so easily handled.

It has been asserted that handling the animals will frighten them and drive them off to some other island, but there appears to be no foundation for the statement, as the animals do not mind it any more than sheep mind being sheared.

MATTER OF NECESSITY.

Why Aunt Philena Did Not Enjoy the Philanthropic Gathering.

"Did you enjoy the missionary aid society yesterday, Aunt Philena?" inquired Nephew Clarence Townley, referring to the philanthropic gathering at Mrs. Judge Tabman's, the ostensible purpose of which was, says Puck, to construct skirts for the undone heathen on certain far-away isles of the Pacific.

"A-J!" returned good old Aunt Philena Broadhead, with a gentle chuckle. "I can't say that I enjoyed the meeting as much as I usually do, although I must confess that it was the most successful session of the society that has occurred since I have been a member in point of actual work accomplished. I think we made more garments in less time than at any previous meeting."

"Then how did it come that you did not enjoy yourself as well as common?" asked the nephew, who, being from the city, was untutored in the ways of such charitable organizations.

"Why, you see, that flirtatious Mrs. Flitters and Mary Ella Perkins, who is going to be married next week, were both there, and being unable to talk about either of them, we were forced to work all the afternoon."

Turkey Buzzards.

"Turkey buzzards are the garbage collectors of Charleston, S. C.," says a traveling man quoted in the Philadelphia Record. "Now, if you know anything of the nature of a turkey buzzard you must know that ordinarily it's a very shy sort of creature and generally avoids civilization, particularly as represented in the large cities. These birds, however, are tame, and they strut about the heels of the people in the markets picking up bits of refuse meat and vegetables. The buzzard has a voracious appetite and there always seems to be room inside of him for a choice bit of tainted beef or decayed cabbage. There is a five-dollar fine for any man molesting any of these birds. I understand that Charleston is the only city in the country that has this unique system of garbage collecting."

The Granite Saloon is a quiet and pleasant place of resort. Cool beer is a specialty. Choice wines are sold by the gallon or in quantities desired; also liquors of all kinds. 411

The St. Louis woman who offered to sell her spouse for $4,000 has a sister in Tucson who, not to be outdone in the husband selling line, offers to dispose of a strong limbed, rosy cheeked hubby for $300, says the Phoenix Gazette. The Tucson girl very sensibly says that it is awfully easy to get a husband, while money in sums of $300 is very rare. Score another tally for Arizona.
I have just received a complete and well selected stock of gents' furnishings goods, underwear, overalls, socks, suspenders, handkerchiefs, ties, etc., which I guarantee to be equal if not better than any in the town, which I will sell at prices that defy competition. My stock of domestic and imported cigars and tobaccos is complete in every particular, comprising such brands as the Nerve, Carl Dunder and Royal in the 5-cent goods, and El Belmont, Sanchez, Hays, De Vallone, International, Hotel Branewick, General Arthur and many others in the imported goods. Call and be satisfied. Free employment office in connection with the store. 2ff A. NELSON.

A SAD DEATH.

Charles G. Steiner, a University Student, Dies Suddenly.

Charles G. Steiner, a student at the State University, died unexpectedly at an early hour yesterday morning. He had been quite sick for a few days with an attack of bilious fever, but was not considered dangerously ill.

His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steiner of Lander county, arrived on Wednesday evening's westbound and immediately went to the bedside of their son. He greeted his parents and after a few moments conversation, finding that everything was being done for him that was possible, they retired, leaving him in charge of his fellow students who had volunteered to sit up with him.

Towards morning, just after one of the watchers had been to the bedside to look at the patient and had returned to a table near which the boys had been sitting, one of them noticed a movement or the peculiar breathing of the sick boy and he immediately went to him. Death had come like a flash and the boy's life had been snuffed out like a spark. There had been no struggle, no cry of pain, nothing unusual, in fact, to attract attention, yet the boy had passed to the great beyond.

The superintendent was called and notified immediately, as well as the parents.

Charles G. Steiner was born in Lander county, Nevada, and was nearing his eighteenth year. He was a remarkable lad and his progress, diligence and earnest ambition to excel in all that he undertook classed him with the highest students at the University. He was a member of the Normal class of 1898 and would have graduated, had he lived, next June. He was popular with his school fellows, in fact, a general favorite with both faculty and students.

It seems hard that one with so much hope before him and who might in proper time be so useful to the world should be called away just on the eve of entering into active life. The silent reaper does not, however, consider the youth or aged, the favored or unfavored, the rich or poor. All must fall sooner or later, none can escape.

The deceased was a member of the University Cadet Corps and a guard of honor will be stationed at the Gymnasium Hall at 10 o'clock to-day, where the remains will lie until 1:20 in the afternoon, when the funeral services will be held. At the conclusion of the services the Cadet Battalion will escort the remains to the depot and in the evening the father and mother will accompany them to Austin, where the interment will take place.

The sympathy of the JOURNAL is extended to the parents and to the brother and sister in this hour of awful sadness.

A New Occupation and a New Field of Operation.

After many years of the hum-drum life of sticking type, that others might read, A. J. Pritchett and W. W. Webster, two of Reno's popular typists, will try their fortunes in a new field and a new occupation. They left last evening for Southern California in the interest of the Oelander Clock Safe Company. They will go to San Luis Obispo and Kern counties, having purchased the agency of that territory.
Mr. Pritchett has been connected with the Gazette for some thirteen years and has very many friends in Reno.
Will Webster has been connected off and on with the JOURNAL office from his early boyhood.
Both boys are jovial, genial fellows and while they are only a span in numbers, they are a whole ten mule team in snap and energy. They are genuine prints in every sense of the word and the craft will find them true blue in all particulars.
The JOURNAL bespeaks for them in their new field of operation the courtesy of the craft and hopes the successful realization of their new venture will be greater than they anticipate and that they will make a small fortune. The people of San Luis Obispo and Kern counties will find them to be straightforward and prompt in all things and then their assistance in Reno will afford them sufficient reference.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, The all-wise and benevolent Creator has deemed it wise to remove from our midst our loving fellow student and comrade, Charles G. Steiner, be it

Resolved, That we, the students at Lincoln Hall, extend to his bereaved parents and relatives, in this, the hour of their affliction, our heartfelt sympathy, and assure them that he who has passed from this life has entered a happier and brighter one. Be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and also published in the Student Record, Austin Reville, Reno Gazette and the Reno JOURNAL.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

John Caughlin, After a Lingering Illness, Passes Away

John Caughlin, well known in Washoe county as a former Deputy Sheriff under his brother, ex-Sheriff Caughlin, quietly passed away at his brother William's residence yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Jack, as he was familiarly known, has been failing in health for some months, and finally went out to his brother William's ranch, where he has received the tenderest care. Kind hearted as a child and as tender as a woman, has been the record of Jack's life. Reno in its earliest days knew him and in the many years following in which he has lived in this community none could speak except in words of praise of his kindness of heart, genial nature and free liberality as far as his means would permit. Let an unkind word be spoken of the most lowly in the town and Jack Caughlin was ever ready to defend by relating some anecdote or some redeeming trait concerning the person criticized. In the discharge of his duties he was firm yet always kind, and always had a word of sympathy for the worst criminal or most trifling tramp, but would perform his duties at any cost.

John Caughlin was born in Australia, coming to America with his parents at the age of a little over a year. Had he lived until next month he would have reached the age of 48 years.

He leaves an aged mother and two sisters, residing at Oakland, California, and two brothers Wm. H. and Jerry Caughlin of Reno, also a son and daughter. His son was with him during his last illness.

The announcement of the time and place of funeral will be published later.

HAPPILY WEDDED.

Miss Mauser and Ed. Monahan joined in Matrimony.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Mauser and James Edward Monahan was celebrated last evening at about half past 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. C. Hunting of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. William Kieff officiated as best man and Miss Jennie Dick acted in the capacity of bridesmaid. Just after the conclusion of the ceremony some one started a bonfire on the dump near the house, which called the fire department to the scene. The Divide Band serenaded the happy couple and festivity was prolonged until a late hour. The newly married couple are both popular on the Comstock and have a host of friends who wish them all possible happiness.—Enterprise.

Doing Well in Alaska.

In a letter received by a resident of Austin from John George, a cabin partner of W. O. Young, formerly of this place, dated at Klondike, August 23, 1897, and published in the Austin Reville, we notice the following which will be of interest to Young's many friends here: Bill Young is doing well. He left Forty Mile Creek last winter on borrowed money, amounting to just a few dollars. He came up here and after awhile bought mining property for $52,000, including an interest in eight claims.

Will Young formerly lived in Reno. He is the elder son of our townsman, Judge Young.

The Congressional Library

The Library of Congress was formally opened to the public on last Monday. The cataloging is not, as yet, completed nor is the furniture all in place, but these details will soon be thoroughly completed.

The Senate and House reading rooms are for the members only. These have been lately furnished. Both are conveniently located in the Capitol building and are elegantly fitted and furnished for the comfort and enjoyment of the law-makers.

The rooms are similarly equipped and are arranged to correspond in the various details as nearly as possible.

A Beautiful Superstition.

Among the superstitions of the Seneca Indians was one most beautiful one. When a young maiden died they imprisoned a young bird until it first began to try its powers of song, and then, loading it with carresses and messages, they loosed its bonds over her grave, in the belief that it would fold its wings or close its eyes until it had flown to the spirit land and delivered its precious burden of affection to the loved and lost one.—Et.

ETIQUETTE OF FUNERALS.

New Yorkers Who Are Careful to Attend Obsèques of Old Friends.

Some men are as conscientious and as scrupulously exact in "paying their respects to the dead" as they are in any other matter of etiquette. Among their number are men conspicuous in public life. Their frequent presence at funerals is indicative of a strong sense of duty as well as of loyal friendship for those to whose death they pay the tribute. For a busy man of affairs to take an hour or two out of the middle of the day to attend a church funeral is often more of a sacrifice than a casual observer might think. Yet there are a score or more of well-known and influential New Yorkers who invariably make it a point to attend the funeral of an old friend, no matter how inconvenient it may be.

John D. Crimmins is most punctilious in this respect, as also is Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, now United States minister to Spain. They believe that loyalty to a friend entails the duty of being present at that friend's funeral. J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth national bank; John H. Starin and D. O. Mills are very busy men who usually find time to attend the funerals of their old friends or business associates.

Within the past few months several old and respected residents of this city have died and been interred after services in some church. In almost every instance the same well-known faces of surviving friends were observed among the general mourners. Elihu Root, John E. Parsons, Stephen P. Nash, ex-Surrogate Delano, C. Calvin and Edward Lauterbach rarely omit attending the obsequies of departed friends. Ex-Police Inspector Alexander S. Williams and Gen. Howard Carroll are two men who apparently never neglect them.

One cold blustering day last winter, when the streets were banked high with snow and the winds were full of icy needles, there was a simple funeral ceremony in a certain private house. The dead man had at one time been very active and influential in New York, but adverse fortune had overtaken him before his last illness. In his prime many hundreds had sought his friendship. Around his coffin scarcely two score of loyal friends had gathered. Chief among these few mourners, however, were ex-Inspector Williams and Gen. Carroll.

Ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant is another strict observer of the etiquette pertaining to funerals. Only the most exacting obligations will prevent his attending the funeral of an old friend. And it is the same way with Comptroller Fitch, Postmaster Van Cott and ex-Postmaster Dayton. Two familiar figures at the public funerals of old New Yorkers are those of ex-Postmaster Thaddeus Wakeman and ex-Collector Thomas Murphy.—N. Y. Times.

CURED BY EXPERIENCE.

Why the Boys Are Not Going to Alaska.

A story was told on the dock recently in Seattle of three young men who were cured of the Alaskan fever in a very practical manner, says the Post-Intelligencer. They had concluded that they would go on the Al-Ki, and had purchased three berths.

"Now, you boys," said the aged adviser, "want to remember that it's pretty cold up there. It's pretty low temperature here to-day, but nothing to what you'll find on the Yukon. Now, let me advise you. Before going to that country you would better have some experience. You may not like it and then you will want to come back. To-night promises to be pretty cold. I have a tent at my house that I used in Alaska. You boys take the tent out on Queen Ann hill and sleep in it to-night."

"It is now ten o'clock. Don't eat anything until about eight o'clock this evening. Then build a fire in your tent, cook some beans and bacon, fix up some unsweetened black coffee, and make a meal. Until bedtime sit around the fire smoking and chewing tobacco and playing cards, and then fix up a rough bunk on the ground and sleep until morning. If you enjoy it, go to Alaska; if not, stay at home."

The boys caught up with the idea enthusiastically, and promised to carry out the programme. Whether they did or not is not known, but the other morning three miserable-looking boys canceled three tickets on the Al-Ki, and as they humbly left the steamship office one was heard to say:

"Do you suppose it really gets that cold in Alaska?"

HOW FLIES WALK UPSIDE DOWN.

An Entomologist Advances a New Theory to Explain the Phenomenon.

In our youth we were taught that flies adhered to the ceiling or to the window pane because their feet were provided with suckers from which they had the power of exhausting the air, says the Hartford Courant. This was disproved by the fact that a fly could run up the side of an exhausted glass receiver when a vacuum under his feet would do him no good, even if he had the power of creating it, and by the further fact that a microscopic examination showed that his feet were not provided with suckers, but with multitudes of hairs from which exuded a fluid in minute drops. It was then suggested that this fluid was viscous or gummy, so that the fly adhered by a sort of mucilage. This, too, was disproved, as it was shown that the fluid possessed no adhesive properties. By a series of careful experiments detailed in Our Animal Friends Dr. Drexelhold proves that capillary attraction, the adhesion of water to a surface, is enough to support a fly even if he were 50 per cent. heavier than he is. The hairs give out an infinitesimal drop of water, and as there are a great number of them the fly is enabled to hang on the ceiling and to tickle any sensitive surface on which he alights in a highly scientific manner.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

George T. Harkness, Plaintiff.

Stephen Conner, Defendant.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER of sale, and decree of foreclosure and sale, issued out of the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, in the above entitled suit, wherein: George T. Harkness, the above named plaintiff, obtained a judgment and decree of foreclosure and sale against Stephen Conner, defendant, on the 18th day of August, A. D. 1897, for the sum of six thousand dollars, principal of the United States, together with $10 attorney's fees, and $1,188 50 interest, aggregating $7,188 50, and costs $15 50, said decree commanding to sell those certain lots, pieces and parcels of land situated, lying and being in the town of Reno, Washoe county, Nevada, and being more particularly described as follows, to-wit: All of blocks H, J, K, L and M in Conner's Survey in the Western Addition to the State of Nevada, as is known and designated on the official map of said survey; said blocks J and K extending to the west line of Sierra street, and the whole being bounded on the south by Kim street, on the east by Sierra street, on the north by Section line, and on the west by Nevada street; together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining. Public notice is hereby given that on Friday, the 26th day of November, 1897,

At 1 o'clock P. M. of said day, in front of the court-house door of the County of Washoe, I will in obedience to said order of sale, decree of foreclosure and sale, sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment with interest, costs, etc., to the highest bidder, for gold coin of the United States.

W. H. MINNIS, Sheriff.

Dated November 2, 1897.

TAX NOTICE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE tax roll of Washoe county, Nevada, for the year 1897 is now in the hands of the County Treasurer, ex-officio Tax Receiver, at his office in the court-house, Reno, Nevada; that the state, county and special taxes are now due and payable, and the same will be delinquent at the close of official business on Monday, December 6th, A. Dated, Oct. 15th 1897.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe county.

The State of Nevada sends to Emma Peterson, Great.

You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by J. K. Peterson, plaintiff, in the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint herein within ten days after the service on you of this summons (exclusive of the day of service). If served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The action is brought to recover judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony between you and said plaintiff, upon the ground of willful desertion for a period of more than one year, to-wit: ever since on the 1st day of November, 1896, and against his will, wish or consent.

All of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is on file in the office of Clerk of said Court, at Reno, in said county, and to which you are especially referred. And you are further notified that you are to appear and answer the said complaint, and the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the Seal of said Court, at Reno, this 18th day of September, A. D. 1897.

WREN & JULIEN, Attorneys for Plaintiff.

DECISIONS BY THE BENCH.

A warranty of the genuineness of the signature of a promissory note is held, in Strauss vs. Henry (D. C. App.), 36 L. R. A. to arise upon a sale and delivery of the note to a purchaser in good faith.

A complaint for the rescission of a contract on the ground of fraud is held, in Cohoon vs. Fisher (Ind.), 36 L. R. A. 103, not to constitute such a conclusive election of remedy as to preclude an amendment demanding damages for the same fraud.

The use of the words "I hereby assign the within note" is held in Maykey vs. Corey (Mich.), 36 L. R. A. 117, insufficient to prevent one who signs his name to such a statement on the back of a promissory note from being held liable as an indorser.

The right of a gas company to charge meter rent to small consumers of gas in addition to the maximum charge per 1,000 feet for gas which is fixed by the charter of the company is denied, in Louisville Gas company vs. Dulaney (Ky.), 36 L. R. A. 125.

A statute making it prima-facie evidence of a banker's intent to defraud in receiving a deposit if his failure, suspension or involuntary liquidation occurs within 30 days thereafter, is held in state vs. Beach (Ind.), 36 L. R. A. 179, to be constitutional.

For the act of the president of a national bank in loaning money to a depositor apparently as an accommodation, but really for his own benefit, taking a note from the nominal borrower secured by stock in the bank which becomes worthless and the nominal borrower insolvent by the failure of the bank caused by the misconduct of the president, it is held, in Grow vs. Cockrell (Ark.), 36 L. R. A. 89, that a receiver of a bank cannot be held liable.—Chicago News.

PEACHES WITHOUT DOWN.

Remarkable Results of a Maryland Horticulturist's Experimenting.

Mr. William P. Winter, a retired carpenter, who lives at No. 826 North Carey street, has entered heart and soul into the wizard business with remarkable results. In a cozy little back yard of Mr. Winter's home grows a peach tree that has produced annual crops of luscious fruit for a number of years. Two years ago Mr. Winter grew weary of the conventional covering of the peaches in his limited orchard, and determined at least to produce a peach minus that objectionable nap or down. He began a series of experiments, and that year produced a peach clothed in the ordinary raiment of the banana; but, not satisfied with the result of his startling assault on nature, he has succeeded in producing a crop, which is just now ripe, that looks for all the world like a tree full of apples. The skin of the fruit is perfectly smooth and of a dark red hue, shading gradually into a yellow that Mr. Winter claims is a remnant of the banana skin. "Next year," said he, "I will have an orange skin on them."

The method employed by Mr. Winter to produce these startling results is a profound secret, and he is preparing to copyright the scheme. Grapvines, as well as peach trees, tremble before the skill of the ex-carpenter, and among the curious things that thrive in the rear of 826 North Carey street is a vine of this sort that bears at this time ripe grapes as sweet as honey and usually large, half-ripe grapes, blossoms and buds, which Mr. Winter expects to ripen by Christmas.—Baltimore American.

ANTS AS PIRATES.

Vessel Literally Swimming with Hordes of Hungry Insects.

When the schooner Golden Sheaf arrived at her moorings one day lately with a cargo of logwood everybody on board, from captain down to cook, rushed frantically ashore as though pursued by some unseen enemy. As a matter of fact, says the Philadelphia Record, the vessel was literally swarming with hordes of hungry Jamaica ants. The little pests had invaded the lockers and dived headlong into the sugar barrels. After finishing the contents of these they proceeded to bore holes through the supply ofhardtack, and ate everything before them, until it was feared that the stock of provisions on board would run short. There was a cessation from their attacks the other day, the vessel having been caught in a West India hurricane, which flooded the cabin and drenched everything below. It was supposed that the intruders had all been drowned, but after the storm had cleared away they began their work with renewed energy. Captain Foster, who commands the vessel, stated that there are millions of the insects still on board, and he thought the cargo must have come from the vicinity of Antigua, for which Jamaica is noted. He stated that the ants were in all parts of the vessel, and that in all his experience at sea he had never before met an ant-infested vessel.

There are fishes comparatively common that it is almost impossible to keep alive in captivity, or even to make give without injury. Among these is the silver gar. This fish is found in considerable numbers in these waters in summer; in southern waters it is common. It attains a length of two feet, is extremely slender and spindling in form, and its head and jaws are pretty nearly a quarter of its length, the jaws tapering almost to a point. It is liable when captured to do injury in the net either to the tip of the long jaws or to some part of its slender body. It is accustomed to swimming near the surface, in well-aerated bay, though handled taken in Gravesend care, have died because of the greatest of care, have died because they could be got to the aquarium.
